

GENERAL GRANT.

General Grant, the hero of many battles, is bravely and manfully fighting his last battle. He is gradually growing weaker and is lingering from hour to hour on the shores of the undeveloped country. He has worked greatly over his life's misfortune, and more over his inability to restore to others that which they have taken from him. He has been a great man, and it was useless to battle against the inevitable and exposed a readiness and willingness to go. He is sinking and is in his easy chair at one o'clock this morning, under the influence of opium.

REPUBLICAN CONVENT.

The Republicans of Perryburg township are called to meet at the Council Room in Perryburg, at 2 o'clock P. M., to-morrow, April 4, to put in nomination a township ticket.

The Corporation caucuses will be held at 7 P. M. at the same place and date, and at the close of the Corporation caucuses two candidates for the Board of Education will be nominated.

The San Francisco Post says: "Cleveland is no longer in the hands of his friends. They are in his."

John W. Bookwalter, the Ohio millionaire, free trader and manufacturer, has purchased a villa on the Mediterranean Sea, where he will devote himself to literature and art.

David Woodruff, of New Haven, Conn., who went to California thirty years ago by working his passage on a steamer, returned to his old home the other day a bank president and worth $2,000,000.

The Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage proposes to visit all the skating rinks in New York and Brooklyn to see for himself whether the charges against them as schools of immorality be true. He will not skate.

Part of the New Jersey State House, at Trenton, was destroyed by fire Saturday. Loss $100,000. The Geological Museum was destroyed, except such relics as had been sent to the New Orleans Exposition.

Susan B. Anthony is now 64 years old and her face is no more wrinkled than when she was 50. Her hair has a few gray strands mixed with its black and she combs it down over her ears in an artistic curl and winds it up into a good-sized waterfall at the back.

The right to collect the buns, crusts of bread, coffee grounds, dishwater, etc., from the bakeries, barbers, markets, and other buildings in Paris is annually sold to the highest bidder. It brought $4,200 last year, but the privilege, if diligently worked, is said to be worth $10,000 a year.

The pop sucker for the political attack and office peddler of Florida, the Revier, has come to the rescue of the Democrat by furnishing it a paragraph when it was in the awful predicament of the boy with nothing more to say through the telephone. Better write until the returns are all in before you give vent to your feelings, brother DeWolf, or you may again have to call to your assistance the versatile pen of Toledo Journalist.

A country that can show an aggregate value in farm animals of $2,455,425,983 is a good way from bankruptcy. And this is the return of horses, mules, milch cows, and other cattle, sheep and swine, for the United States for the year 1884. As compared with the previous year there was no increase in all farm animals except sheep and swine, and depreciation in those classes being attributed to a change in the wool tariff and the low price of corn.

Lotteries are sanctioned by the church and government in Mexico. A lottery office is on nearly every block, and there are every corner men, women and children peddling tickets like newspapers. Many of the hospitals and other charitable institutions are sustained by this sort of gambling, and the only railroad in Mexico that is owned at home was constructed upon the profits of a lottery. And we seem to be drifting into the worst habits of that country.

Citizens' Meeting at Toledo.
There was a large attendance, irrespective of party affiliation, of the more prominent citizens of Toledo on Friday evening last, to consult upon the best means of securing the nomination of the best men for the local offices, and to lay aside all partisan preferences in the defeat of improper men should they succeed in securing the nomination. Several speeches were made in which decided ground was taken that it was the duty of every citizen to vote against every improper nominee made by caucus or convention when the candidates on the opposite ticket were the better men. The committee on resolutions presented the following, which was adopted as expressing the views of the speakers and those present at the meeting:

WHEREAS—It is manifest that this city has heretofore suffered and now suffers materially from want of proper service in some departments of its municipal government, resulting in waste of public money, imperfect police service, and other mismanagement; and

WHEREAS—The state of things is largely due to general indifference on the part of the voters of the city as to the choice of municipal officers, who have been selected with reference to the party spirit of political parties, rather than the public good; and

WHEREAS—This evil has reached a stage which forbids further indifference on the part of the voters, and that the choice of city officials, therefore, be it resolved—That this meeting of voters of the City of Toledo, without regard to partisan bearing, earnestly entreat upon the caucuses and conventions of the several political parties, the special importance to the city of increased care and discretion in the presentation of candidates for the different municipal offices at the approaching election.

Resolved—That, estimating the interests of good local government involved in the choice of local officers as far more important to ourselves and to our city than can possibly be any personal concern which we or the city can have therein, we will be guided in casting our ballots at the coming election by the fitness of the candidates presented for our suffrage, and not by party considerations, which their success or defeat may be expected to promote.

Resolved—That the electors of Toledo, without regard to party affiliation, be earnestly solicited to co-operate in the promotion of the highly important object now sought, by employing their power and influence in the selection of fit men as candidates, and by such independent action as the polls may still insure the success of the candidates most fit for their several positions, without regard to their political relations.

Resolved—That independent voters will closely watch the nominations which may be made by both political parties for the coming spring election, that after such nominations are made, the independent voters be called together for the purpose of selecting the best men named by each party and to encourage their support without regard to former party affiliation.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

The Ice Gone.—At noon Tuesday, the last day of March, the water forced its way through the north channel of the river at point, breaking up the ice for a distance of about one mile below town. The ice remained firm in south channel until yesterday when it floated out by the anchorage and was broken up. The least Napoleon and Defiance were here on Tuesday about the same time it moved here, and it is presumed that all up river has passed on. A report is received at the Lake Shore bridge at Toledo, but no danger is apprehended to property in that city. The river is just bank full at this point, and at no time has the high level been covered with water. It was a tame show this year.

Take Warning.—Before Councilman Mehan had scarcely got his chair warmed after the election one year ago, he broached the subject to us of the $100,000 worth of corporation bonds, in ways that were dark and a trick that would be vain and empty. He wanted to know if the old Council Committee had the power to go ahead and issue bonds without the authority of law, why the present Council would not be justified in assuming similar authority, issue $100,000 worth of bonds, put an advertisement in the Journal, inviting manufacturers to come among us, and if the people should raise objection to this mode of procedure to tell them to step aside, that they did not know what was for the best of the city.

Recognizing that there was a legitimate and honorable way to transact business of this nature, it required less than five minutes for us to go ahead and issue bonds, without the authority of law, to join a combination for robbing the people, and that it could not be induced to do so under the recent management, and that we fully believed it would be a warm day for any Council in the future who would attempt to invest themselves with any such authority.

We are told that Mr. Mehan is active in trying to secure the selection of three Councilmen at the approaching election that will aid him in this scheme. If our people have not had experience in the kind of business they are now undoubtedly aid him in carrying out his cherished object.

Wolford Post Anniversary.—The fourth anniversary of Wolford Post was appropriately and pleasantly celebrated on Monday night, in a flow of soul and a feast of reason, in the most improved plan of cooking pork and beans. There was a large attendance of the members present and all seemed determined on having a pleasant evening of it. Coffee was served in paper cups with wine and beer and was served in wooden butter dishes.

There were fourteen rounds fired and the lines never wavered for a moment, but all stood to the rack like old veterans. All kinds of beans were cooked in all kinds of styles known to the commissary department and modern cook books. Inspired by the associations connected with such a supper, the last mouthful was scarcely swallowed when nearly every Comrade present found himself joining in the rousing old army choruses in which he had not participated since the days of Aud Lucius Sygne. Comrade Buff gave an idea of his versatility by singing national songs and ballads in four different languages.

The little German band rendered the German national airs in their native tongue. Spirited speeches were made by Comrade Wolf and others. Comrade Ariz capped the climax by passing a box of cigars and the entertainment ended in a tableau of smoke.

The committee in charge of the commissary are deserving of much credit for the part they took in the enjoyment.

Edmund Yates says that when Mrs. Langtry first came to London society the wags declared "she had only two tricks." The next year, with unabated malice, they wanted to know "who paid for all her gowns?"

"The United States has 17,000 dentists, who use a ton of gold and five tons of other metals and make 4,000,000 artificial teeth annually. Only one American dentist is known to have a gold tooth, and one-third of the population make more or less use of artificial product.

In manufacturing $100 worth of liquor $2 to labor, in manufacturing $100 of boots and shoes $22 to labor. The money turned over by one distillery employing 150 men would, if employed in more useful ways, give work to 15,000 men.—N. Y. Telegram.

"The fruits of the Hocking Valley strike," says the Philadelphia Star, "have been poverty and irreconcilable loss of wages to the miners, burned mines and impaired business to coal mine owners and railroads. How much better for both parties if there had been some tribunal of arbitration either by law or by mutual agreement, to which the questions in controversy could have been submitted, and whose decision would have been final."

SHIP AHOY!
The State goes on. Keep steady, boys. Old ocean is untamed. Ugly old weather. Pirates not all dead. Passengers crowded aboard. New captain and shipmates. Dynamite powder, and spirits of turpentine abut. Better freight and more of it than ever. I reckon we can pull through. How's the compass? Damaged! Good gracious! Where's the chart? What sort of a craft is that heading this way? Don't you see her? Right over the starboard bow. She's coming right down upon us. Hand me the trumpet. Ship ahoy! Bear away, heavily, where bound? What's the news? "Over in the States things are in a muddle. Come very near electing Jeff Davis. The fellow called patriots in '65 are now called traitors. They've taken the black and throw over to a politician to get Gray elected last year—poor fellow he's almost dead. Might as well be hanged. The very men he killed are the head of the government. Don't know what they'll do next. I don't know what they'll do next. I don't know what they'll do next."

LUCKY ITEMS.
Our factories, saw mills and lime kilns have all commenced running, giving employment to many who have been wanting work for a long time. This will loosen up money matters a good deal.

The outlook for the summer is good, for everything betokens busy times in and about Luckey. Building has already commenced.

The spring election does not indicate any change in Township matters.

The Evangelical church here is holding a series of meetings, got protected meetings. Mr. George Krother, our wagon maker, is having plenty of business. He has made several new wagons and has orders for more.

Mr. Wood, the Wood county surveyor, has been here the past week and surveyed off the balance of Mr. Isaac Krother's place into village lots and blocks, and all are now for sale. If Mr. James Haskaway would lay off his place into lots and open for sale, it would be a big help to him and the place.

All parties would be benefited by it. Mr. Annie Arbuckle, our genial and hospitable hostess, has completely renovated the Luckey Hotel and made it one of the most respectable Hotels in the county. May success attend her efforts as she is deserving.

March 30.
Lincoln's Anxiety for Brough.

A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune in speaking of the Ohio election of 1863, and the interest felt in it by the administration at Washington, says:

At about 10 o'clock the night of the election in the telegraph office at Cleveland there was a call from Washington, and the question came, "Where is John Brough?" "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer.

At about 10 o'clock the night of the election in the telegraph office at Cleveland there was a call from Washington, and the question came, "Where is John Brough?" "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer.

At about 10 o'clock the night of the election in the telegraph office at Cleveland there was a call from Washington, and the question came, "Where is John Brough?" "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer.

At about 10 o'clock the night of the election in the telegraph office at Cleveland there was a call from Washington, and the question came, "Where is John Brough?" "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer.

At about 10 o'clock the night of the election in the telegraph office at Cleveland there was a call from Washington, and the question came, "Where is John Brough?" "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer.

At about 10 o'clock the night of the election in the telegraph office at Cleveland there was a call from Washington, and the question came, "Where is John Brough?" "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer.

At about 10 o'clock the night of the election in the telegraph office at Cleveland there was a call from Washington, and the question came, "Where is John Brough?" "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer.

At about 10 o'clock the night of the election in the telegraph office at Cleveland there was a call from Washington, and the question came, "Where is John Brough?" "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer.

At about 10 o'clock the night of the election in the telegraph office at Cleveland there was a call from Washington, and the question came, "Where is John Brough?" "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer.

At about 10 o'clock the night of the election in the telegraph office at Cleveland there was a call from Washington, and the question came, "Where is John Brough?" "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

[From Our Regular Correspondent.]
WASHINGTON, D. C., March 30, 1885.
One of the peculiar characteristics of our new President finds opportunity for display every day in the week, and about every hour in the day. This is to find out what people naturally expect the administration is going to do, and then do as nearly the opposite of that expectation as possible. It has been known here for a good while that the President and his family were inclined to a belief in the family old Presbyterian doctrine that embraced infidelity, and which was such a comfort to the old lady who congratulated herself upon the mighty number that would comprise the elect. The New York Ave. Presbyterian church, being the most fashionable of those governed by deacons, naturally expected that the President would choose that house as the one best suited to administer his Sunday's spiritual food, and so the church on Monday afternoon the inauguration hall was crowded as it never was crowded before, by an expectant throng anxious to see Grever under fire of a Washington preacher charged with infidelity.

The President, however, disappointed everybody, not only by not going to church at all, but by sending his family home to bed. He had a breakfast table, which for some time has been steadily declining towards final dissolution. Of course the presence of the President's family here will revise many of the material of the President's administration.

We are told that Mr. Mehan is active in trying to secure the selection of three Councilmen at the approaching election that will aid him in this scheme. If our people have not had experience in the kind of business they are now undoubtedly aid him in carrying out his cherished object.

Wolford Post Anniversary.—The fourth anniversary of Wolford Post was appropriately and pleasantly celebrated on Monday night, in a flow of soul and a feast of reason, in the most improved plan of cooking pork and beans. There was a large attendance of the members present and all seemed determined on having a pleasant evening of it. Coffee was served in paper cups with wine and beer and was served in wooden butter dishes.

There were fourteen rounds fired and the lines never wavered for a moment, but all stood to the rack like old veterans. All kinds of beans were cooked in all kinds of styles known to the commissary department and modern cook books. Inspired by the associations connected with such a supper, the last mouthful was scarcely swallowed when nearly every Comrade present found himself joining in the rousing old army choruses in which he had not participated since the days of Aud Lucius Sygne. Comrade Buff gave an idea of his versatility by singing national songs and ballads in four different languages.

The little German band rendered the German national airs in their native tongue. Spirited speeches were made by Comrade Wolf and others. Comrade Ariz capped the climax by passing a box of cigars and the entertainment ended in a tableau of smoke.

The committee in charge of the commissary are deserving of much credit for the part they took in the enjoyment.

Edmund Yates says that when Mrs. Langtry first came to London society the wags declared "she had only two tricks." The next year, with unabated malice, they wanted to know "who paid for all her gowns?"

"The United States has 17,000 dentists, who use a ton of gold and five tons of other metals and make 4,000,000 artificial teeth annually. Only one American dentist is known to have a gold tooth, and one-third of the population make more or less use of artificial product.

In manufacturing $100 worth of liquor $2 to labor, in manufacturing $100 of boots and shoes $22 to labor. The money turned over by one distillery employing 150 men would, if employed in more useful ways, give work to 15,000 men.—N. Y. Telegram.

"The fruits of the Hocking Valley strike," says the Philadelphia Star, "have been poverty and irreconcilable loss of wages to the miners, burned mines and impaired business to coal mine owners and railroads. How much better for both parties if there had been some tribunal of arbitration either by law or by mutual agreement, to which the questions in controversy could have been submitted, and whose decision would have been final."

SHIP AHOY!
The State goes on. Keep steady, boys. Old ocean is untamed. Ugly old weather. Pirates not all dead. Passengers crowded aboard. New captain and shipmates. Dynamite powder, and spirits of turpentine abut. Better freight and more of it than ever. I reckon we can pull through. How's the compass? Damaged! Good gracious! Where's the chart? What sort of a craft is that heading this way? Don't you see her? Right over the starboard bow. She's coming right down upon us. Hand me the trumpet. Ship ahoy! Bear away, heavily, where bound? What's the news? "Over in the States things are in a muddle. Come very near electing Jeff Davis. The fellow called patriots in '65 are now called traitors. They've taken the black and throw over to a politician to get Gray elected last year—poor fellow he's almost dead. Might as well be hanged. The very men he killed are the head of the government. Don't know what they'll do next. I don't know what they'll do next. I don't know what they'll do next."

LUCKY ITEMS.
Our factories, saw mills and lime kilns have all commenced running, giving employment to many who have been wanting work for a long time. This will loosen up money matters a good deal.

The outlook for the summer is good, for everything betokens busy times in and about Luckey. Building has already commenced.

The spring election does not indicate any change in Township matters.

The Evangelical church here is holding a series of meetings, got protected meetings. Mr. George Krother, our wagon maker, is having plenty of business. He has made several new wagons and has orders for more.

Mr. Wood, the Wood county surveyor, has been here the past week and surveyed off the balance of Mr. Isaac Krother's place into village lots and blocks, and all are now for sale. If Mr. James Haskaway would lay off his place into lots and open for sale, it would be a big help to him and the place.

All parties would be benefited by it. Mr. Annie Arbuckle, our genial and hospitable hostess, has completely renovated the Luckey Hotel and made it one of the most respectable Hotels in the county. May success attend her efforts as she is deserving.

March 30.
Lincoln's Anxiety for Brough.

A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune in speaking of the Ohio election of 1863, and the interest felt in it by the administration at Washington, says:

At about 10 o'clock the night of the election in the telegraph office at Cleveland there was a call from Washington, and the question came, "Where is John Brough?" "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer.

At about 10 o'clock the night of the election in the telegraph office at Cleveland there was a call from Washington, and the question came, "Where is John Brough?" "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer.

At about 10 o'clock the night of the election in the telegraph office at Cleveland there was a call from Washington, and the question came, "Where is John Brough?" "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer.

At about 10 o'clock the night of the election in the telegraph office at Cleveland there was a call from Washington, and the question came, "Where is John Brough?" "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer.

At about 10 o'clock the night of the election in the telegraph office at Cleveland there was a call from Washington, and the question came, "Where is John Brough?" "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer.

At about 10 o'clock the night of the election in the telegraph office at Cleveland there was a call from Washington, and the question came, "Where is John Brough?" "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer.

At about 10 o'clock the night of the election in the telegraph office at Cleveland there was a call from Washington, and the question came, "Where is John Brough?" "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer.

At about 10 o'clock the night of the election in the telegraph office at Cleveland there was a call from Washington, and the question came, "Where is John Brough?" "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer.

At about 10 o'clock the night of the election in the telegraph office at Cleveland there was a call from Washington, and the question came, "Where is John Brough?" "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer.

At about 10 o'clock the night of the election in the telegraph office at Cleveland there was a call from Washington, and the question came, "Where is John Brough?" "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer.

At about 10 o'clock the night of the election in the telegraph office at Cleveland there was a call from Washington, and the question came, "Where is John Brough?" "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer. "He is in the city," was the answer.

HOYTVILLE JOTTINGS.

ED. JOURNAL.—On Friday morning last, about 4 o'clock, the saloon building owned by H. H. Price and occupied by Bert Hotchkiss, was burned down. Everything was burned, excepting a portion of Mrs. Hotchkiss' household goods, which were moved out the day before as they were preparing to move to Fostoria. When the fire was first discovered the whole inside of the saloon was filled with bright flames. Elmer Keas was the first to discover the fire, and ran around to the rear of the saloon to the kitchen where Mr. Hotchkiss and wife were sleeping and waked them up. They had no time to dress, as the room was filled with smoke and the fire had burned through the door leading to their sleeping room. The building was insured for $12,100, and there was some insurance on the goods. Mr. Price's loss will be small. Burning shingles were carried across the street, and at one time it was thought that two or three other buildings would have to go.

NOTES OF THE FIRE.
Mike Callahan had his hair burned up. San Fellers got his pants on wrong side out. Leatherman had no boots on. Charley Hoyt thought his drug store was going. Mr. Fry carried out his goods. John Sprague drank the whiskey. Jim Clarke was last but not least. The ladies were out in force and fatigue costumes.

MR. H. H. PRICE.
Mr. H. H. Price is getting material on the ground to build a house down by the depot where the one was burned a year ago.

PAY THOMAS.
Pay Thomas is building a fine new house just below the school house.

ABOUT TEN DAYS AGO.
About ten days ago Snider's saloon was broken into while Matt Espen, the bar tender, was at dinner, and about $15 taken. There was a young man arrested, but as nothing was proven against him he was released and given one hour to leave town. He is gone.

OUR SCHOOL IS IN ONE WEEK.
There will be school this coming week. Election is near at hand. Candidates are thicker than bees around a sugar barrel.

THEY SAY THE BEES ARE NEARLY ALL DEAD.
In this vicinity, caused by the extreme cold weather of the past winter. The quail have shared the same fate.

ON FRIDAY LAST.
On Friday last, Wm. Marks passed through here with his team. He was from St. Johns, Clinton county, Michigan, and was moving near Morol, Marion county, Ohio.

HOYTVILLE, MARCH 30, 1885.
Our school is in one week. There will be school this coming week. Election is near at hand. Candidates are thicker than bees around a sugar barrel.

PETER GINLET.
A Kentuckian's Adventure with a Broad Chisel.

WHAT CAUSE A HOT TEMPER AND AN ILL TEMPER?
Napoleon Bonaparte Banton is the high sounding name of a huge Kentuckian of the Blue Grass country. Banton is a painter and a first rate artist, but his name is too elaborate for the ways of the primitive people among whom he lives. They shortened it formerly to "Nappy" and sometimes to "Bony" but of late, owing to his occupation he has been, and is, universally known as Peter Ginlet, and half the town round there don't know he has any other name.

Peter has an awful temper. When he gets mad he begins to talk gently, for the purpose of keeping his temper down, but as he talks, his temper rises, and when he gets a full head of steam on, his voice is like half a dozen hurricanes and it is distinctly heard, so report says, in the adjoining counties.

He has been troubled for several years with an ingrowing toe nail on the great toe of his right foot. The nail is so large and so painful that he has had to leave his occupation and has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time.

He has been troubled for several years with an ingrowing toe nail on the great toe of his right foot. The nail is so large and so painful that he has had to leave his occupation and has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time.

He has been troubled for several years with an ingrowing toe nail on the great toe of his right foot. The nail is so large and so painful that he has had to leave his occupation and has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time.

He has been troubled for several years with an ingrowing toe nail on the great toe of his right foot. The nail is so large and so painful that he has had to leave his occupation and has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time.

He has been troubled for several years with an ingrowing toe nail on the great toe of his right foot. The nail is so large and so painful that he has had to leave his occupation and has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time.

He has been troubled for several years with an ingrowing toe nail on the great toe of his right foot. The nail is so large and so painful that he has had to leave his occupation and has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time.

He has been troubled for several years with an ingrowing toe nail on the great toe of his right foot. The nail is so large and so painful that he has had to leave his occupation and has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time.

He has been troubled for several years with an ingrowing toe nail on the great toe of his right foot. The nail is so large and so painful that he has had to leave his occupation and has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time.

He has been troubled for several years with an ingrowing toe nail on the great toe of his right foot. The nail is so large and so painful that he has had to leave his occupation and has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time.

He has been troubled for several years with an ingrowing toe nail on the great toe of his right foot. The nail is so large and so painful that he has had to leave his occupation and has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time.

He has been troubled for several years with an ingrowing toe nail on the great toe of his right foot. The nail is so large and so painful that he has had to leave his occupation and has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time.

He has been troubled for several years with an ingrowing toe nail on the great toe of his right foot. The nail is so large and so painful that he has had to leave his occupation and has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time.

He has been troubled for several years with an ingrowing toe nail on the great toe of his right foot. The nail is so large and so painful that he has had to leave his occupation and has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time.

He has been troubled for several years with an ingrowing toe nail on the great toe of his right foot. The nail is so large and so painful that he has had to leave his occupation and has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time.

He has been troubled for several years with an ingrowing toe nail on the great toe of his right foot. The nail is so large and so painful that he has had to leave his occupation and has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time.

He has been troubled for several years with an ingrowing toe nail on the great toe of his right foot. The nail is so large and so painful that he has had to leave his occupation and has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time.

He has been troubled for several years with an ingrowing toe nail on the great toe of his right foot. The nail is so large and so painful that he has had to leave his occupation and has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time.

He has been troubled for several years with an ingrowing toe nail on the great toe of his right foot. The nail is so large and so painful that he has had to leave his occupation and has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time. He has been unable to work for some time.